What is to Samsung as iPhone is to Apple?

Samsung's flagship smartphone series that is equivalent to Apple's iPhone is the Samsung Galaxy series. The Samsung Galaxy phones run on the Android operating system and are known for their high-quality displays, cameras, and innovative features. Like the iPhone, the Samsung Galaxy phones are updated regularly with new models being released each year.

What is to England as Seoul is to South Korea?

The capital city of England is London, which is equivalent to Seoul in South Korea. London is a major global city, known for its rich history, culture, and landmarks such as Buckingham Palace, the Tower of London, and the London Eye. Similarly, Seoul is the capital and largest city of South Korea, and is known for its modern infrastructure, advanced technology, and cultural landmarks such as Gyeongbokgung Palace, Namsan Tower, and the Dongdaemun Design Plaza. Both cities are also major economic and political centers in their respective countries.

What is to goal as Polar Star is to objective?

A goal is synonymous with an objective, so there is no direct equivalent. However, if we consider "Polar Star" as a metaphor for something that guides and directs us towards an objective, then we could say that a plan or strategy is to a goal as the Polar Star is to an objective. Just as the Polar Star helps navigate through darkness and uncertainty, a well-defined plan or strategy can help us reach our goals by providing a clear path to follow and guiding us towards our objective.

What is to mouth as walk is to legs?

The word that is to "mouth" as "walk" is to "legs" is "eat."

Just as walking is a physical action that involves the legs, eating is a physical action that involves the mouth. Walking is a way to move from one place to another, while eating is a way to consume food and nourish the body. Both are fundamental actions that are necessary for basic functioning and survival.

What is to Judge as literate is to Author?

The word that is to "judge" as "literate" is to "author" is "critic."

Just as a judge evaluates and makes decisions about legal cases, a critic evaluates and offers opinions about artistic works such as books, movies, and music. Similarly, just as being literate is a necessary skill for an author to communicate effectively through writing, having a critical eye and the ability to analyze and evaluate artistic works is an important skill for a critic.

What is to stronger as erode is to weaker?

The word that is to "stronger" as "erode" is to "weaker" is "weaken."

To erode means to gradually wear away or diminish something, causing it to become weaker. Therefore, the opposite of erode is to strengthen, meaning to make something stronger or more durable.

Similarly, to weaken means to cause something to become less strong or less effective. The opposite of weaken is to strengthen, meaning to make something stronger or more resilient.

What is to Spa as information is to library?

The word that is to "spa" as "information" is to "library" is "relaxation."

A spa is a place where people go to relax and rejuvenate through various treatments and activities such as massages, facials, and saunas. Similarly, a library is a place where people go to access information and knowledge through books, articles, and other resources.

The commonality between the two is that they both provide a specific experience for their visitors. Just as a spa provides a relaxing and rejuvenating experience, a library provides an informative and educational experience.

What is to snow as fall is to leaf?

The word that is to "snow" as "fall" is to "leaf" is "melt."

When snow falls, it accumulates on the ground and can eventually melt away due to rising temperatures or other factors. Similarly, when leaves fall from trees, they can eventually decay and decompose back into the soil.

Thus, just as "fall" is the action of leaves dropping from a tree, "melt" is the action of snow transforming from a solid to a liquid state and disappearing.

What is to stew as pan is to pot?

The word that is to "stew" as "pan" is to "pot" is "simmer."

To stew is to cook a dish slowly in liquid over a long period of time, typically in a covered pot. Similarly, a pot is a container used for cooking, typically with a lid to keep the heat and steam inside.

To simmer is to cook food gently in liquid over low heat, which is a cooking technique similar to stewing. A pan is another type of cooking container that is typically shallower than a pot, and is often used for cooking dishes that require faster cooking times, such as sautéing or stir-frying.

Thus, just as a pot is a container used for stewing, a pan is a container used for simmering or other types of cooking techniques that require less liquid and shorter cooking times.

What is to smoke as boiling is to steam?

The word that is to "smoke" as "boiling" is to "steam" is "fume."

Smoke is a visible suspension of particles in the air that is produced by burning or combustion. Similarly, steam is a visible suspension of water droplets in the air that is produced by boiling or heating water.

Fume is a term used to describe a visible suspension of particles or gases in the air that is produced by chemical reactions or the evaporation of volatile substances. Fumes can be toxic or harmful if inhaled, and can be produced by a variety of sources such as chemicals, solvents, and cleaners.

Thus, just as boiling produces steam, some chemical reactions or evaporation of certain substances can produce fumes.

What is to black as pink is to red?

The word that is to "black" as "pink" is to "red" is "dark."

Black is the absence of light or the complete absorption of light, resulting in a lack of color. Similarly, pink is a lighter shade of red that is created by adding white to the color.

Dark is a word used to describe colors that are closer to black, such as dark blue or dark green. It is also used to describe the absence of light or the lack of brightness.

Therefore, just as pink is a lighter shade of red, dark is a descriptor for colors that are closer to black or the absence of light.

I don't think so. Please answer the other way in color.

My apologies for misunderstanding the question earlier. The word that is to "black" as "pink" is to "red" is "gray."

Black is a color that results from the absence of light or all colors combined, while pink is a lighter shade of red that results from adding white to the color. Similarly, gray is a color that is created by mixing black and white, and is often associated with shades of darkness or mutedness.

Therefore, just as pink is a lighter shade of red, gray is a color that is related to black, but lighter and less intense.

What is to rectangle as circle is to square?

The word that is to "rectangle" as "circle" is to "square" is "ellipse."

A rectangle is a four-sided shape with opposite sides that are parallel and equal in length. Similarly, a square is a four-sided shape with all sides equal in length and all angles equal to 90 degrees.

A circle is a two-dimensional shape that is defined by all points equidistant from the center point, while an ellipse is a two-dimensional shape that is defined by two focal points and the sum of the distances between any point on the ellipse and the two focal points is constant.

Therefore, just as a circle is a two-dimensional shape defined by equidistant points from the center, an ellipse is a two-dimensional shape that is defined by two focal points and a constant sum of distances, and is related to a rectangle but not the same.

호웅

Is there another answer?

Another possible answer to the analogy "What is to rectangle as circle is to square?" is "oval."

A rectangle is a four-sided shape with opposite sides that are parallel and equal in length. Similarly, a square is a four-sided shape with all sides equal in length and all angles equal to 90 degrees.

A circle is a two-dimensional shape that is defined by all points equidistant from the center point, while an oval is a two-dimensional shape that is elongated and curved, and is defined by two focal points and the sum of the distances between any point on the oval and the two focal points is constant.

Therefore, just as a circle is a two-dimensional shape defined by equidistant points from the center, an oval is a two-dimensional shape that is defined by two focal points and a constant sum of distances, and is related to a rectangle but not the same.

What is to automobile as leg is to table?

The word that is to "automobile" as "leg" is to "table" is "wheel."

An automobile is a vehicle with four wheels that is designed for transportation on roads. Similarly, a table is a piece of furniture with four legs that is used for various purposes.

A wheel is a circular object that rotates around an axis and is used to facilitate movement or transportation. In the case of an automobile, the wheels are an essential component that enable it to move on the road, while in the case of a table, wheels are sometimes added to make it easier to move or transport.

Therefore, just as the legs of a table provide support and stability, the wheels of an automobile provide mobility and enable it to move on the road.

What is to snow as droplet is to water?

The word that is to "snow" as "droplet" is to "water" is "flake."

Snow is a form of precipitation that falls from the atmosphere as ice crystals that combine into snowflakes. Similarly, water can exist in the form of droplets, which are small, spherical or nearly spherical bodies of liquid that result from the condensation of water vapor.

A flake is a small, flat or thin piece of material that is typically one of many similar pieces, and is often used to describe the individual pieces that make up snow.

Therefore, just as a droplet is a small, spherical piece of liquid water, a flake is a small, flat or thin piece of snow that is often one of many similar pieces that make up a snowfall.

What is to ice cream as pepperoni is to Pizza?

The word that is to "ice cream" as "pepperoni" is to "pizza" is "topping."

Ice cream is a frozen dessert that is often served with a variety of toppings, such as whipped cream, hot fudge, sprinkles, and fruit. Similarly, pizza is a savory dish that typically includes a crust, sauce, cheese, and a variety of toppings.

Pepperoni is a type of sausage that is commonly used as a pizza topping, along with other toppings such as mushrooms, onions, peppers, and olives.

Therefore, just as ice cream can be customized with a variety of toppings, pizza can also be customized with a variety of toppings, and pepperoni is a popular topping that is often added to pizza.

What is to sleepy as best is to good?

The word that is to "sleepy" as "best" is to "good" is "sleepiest."

Sleepy is an adjective used to describe the feeling of being tired and ready to sleep. Similarly, good is an adjective used to describe something that is positive or desirable, while best is used to describe something that is the most positive or desirable of all.

Sleepiest is the superlative form of the adjective sleepy, indicating the highest degree of sleepiness.

Therefore, just as best is the superlative form of the adjective good, indicating the highest degree of goodness, sleepiest is the superlative form of the adjective sleepy, indicating the highest degree of sleepiness.
